A telegram from Anna, Illinois, says: A remarkable coincidence is developed in the deaths, on last Sunday afternoon, of Martin Keadleman, of Coaling, this (Union) county, and Samuel Keadleman, of Crowley's Ridge, Ark. They were twin brothers, being born on the 29th day of February, 1824. For years they had lived in different states, and neither knew of the illness of the other. Both were stricken with paralysis, and both died about the same hour on Sunday afternoon.

A special opportunity is afforded students of the usual sciences to distinguish themselves by explaining this strange coincidence.

The Constitutional Convention.

Dennis, from the special probate court committee, reported a substitute, creating a probate court, open always and held by an elective judge, with a two years' term. It shall have jurisdiction in probate matters and in the collection of taxes and assessments.

The legislature is authorized to confer common law jurisdiction up to $1,000 concurrently with the district court, except in cases involving title to real estate, and may try misdemeanors.

This increase of power may be created by general or special law. Appeals shall lie to the district court, and be tried there de novo, while the judge is to get the same salary as a district judge. The report was adopted by vote of 16 to 6.

Wilson moved to make the minimum salaries as follow: Supreme judges, $4,000; district judges, $3,600 per annum. Smith moved to amend by making those figures absolute and unchangeable. As to supreme judges the motion was carried, ayes 14, nays 6.

The district judge salary was fixed at $3,500 by a vote of 15 to 5.

The state treasurer was declared liable for perjury in willfully swearing to false reports to the governor. Making profits out of treasury funds was declared a felony.

A state board of equalization was proposed under section 8, to assess property of railroads and other common carriers. Rowe moved to strike out the section, as the board had worked badly heretofore. Herring said it was better than separate county assessments, which differed in each county, creating great confusion and unjust discrimination.

Rowe replied that all property should be assessed alike. A board of state secretary, auditor and treasurer would allow railroads to concentrate on their election and so control the assessment of railroad property.

Alexander moved a substitute for the proposed board, consisting of the governor, auditor and treasurer of such board. They are to equalize valuations among the several counties and perform other duties required by law. The supervisors are also declared a board of equalization in each county.

World's Fair Work.

The United Territories of Arizona, Oklahoma, Idaho, Utah, and New Mexico will contribute a Legion of Honor among the exhibits of the sisterhood of states and territories. They will erect together a magnificent structure embodying the unique types of the west, the domain in which they live. The building for which space was yesterday allotted and accepted, will stand on the northern limits of the park overlooking Lake Michigan, and within easy access of all parts of the exposition.

Five great territories will be housed in a temple patterned after the cross of the Legion of Honor. There will be a circular rotunda or general assembly room, fifty feet in diameter, surrounded by a glass dome 100 feet in height. This will be the general assembly room or mart for all visitors of the fair from the borderless west.

Radiating from this central pavilion will extend five annexes each fifty feet in length, with elegant facades and towers in which each of the quintet of United States notices will be honored, and in which the special exhibits of the respective territories will be placed. In the second story of each radiating point of the cross will be the rooms of the committees and commissioners from the various territories. Altogether the building, in novelty and adaptability to the purposes for which it is designed, will not be surpassed by any state building at the exposition.

The plans as given above were adopted by the Territorial World's Fair association, of which Mrs. Bartlett of New Mexico is president and Miss Lorretta Lovell of Arizona is secretary. Miss Lovell, who is also a member of the board of ladies managers of the world's fair, is in Chicago, and yesterday had a satisfactory conference with the directory in relation to the site and the plan of the building. She has been assisted by Commissioner R. M. White of New Mexico, who stated yesterday that as all of the territories included in the association had made liberal appropriations, no doubt existed as to the success of the plan.

An architect has been employed to detail the general design, and work will be commenced upon the building at an early date. It is believed that the enthusiasm aroused by the joint arrangement will cause the territories to make increased appropriations. The building will be a feature among the state buildings—Chicago Times.

A telegram from Carthage, Illinois, says: While County Treasurer John W. Beebe was overhauling his office yesterday he found a number of papers, old and musty with age, which, upon examination, proved to be a number of official writs, summonses and executions issued out of the office of John Banks, a justice of the peace of Rocky Run township. The papers have dates varying from 1845 to 1850, most of them are writs for the "Bodies" of certain Mormons who are charged with stealing corn, oats, cabbages, etc. One William McAnley swears he has been robbed of certain spring guns, and verily believes that said guns are concealed in the town of Nauvoo. Frasers M. Higbee, son of the late Judge Higbee, issued one number of the Nauvoo Express, at Nauvoo, which was destroyed by fire, and the press and type were destroyed. This act led to the murder of Joe Smith and his brother Hyrum. Francis Higbee subsequently moved to Carthage, and was active in his opposition to Mormons.

The Italians of Newark, N. J., who had a celebration last week, wound it up with a dynamite salute, which blew three men into smithereens, killed four more people and wounded twenty-four. All of this illustrates the possibilities of disaster when a fool and a dynamite cartridge happen to be in close proximity.—Los Angeles Times.

Memorial to the President.

The following memorial to President Harrison was adopted by the constitutional convention recently: HALL OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF ARIZONA. PHOENIX, ARIZ., Sept. 29, 1891. To the President of the United States.

The undersigned, by authority of the representatives of the people of Arizona, in convention assembled, respectfully represent that we are informed the abandonment of the military post known as Whipple Barracks, at the city of Prescott, county of Yavapai, is under consideration by the war department.

That said military post is an old established and important one, with great strategic advantages.

That in it large sums of money have been invested by the government, and that its past history has proven it a most healthful and desirable place for a garrison.

That it is one of the places from which troops would be available in event of any trouble with the powerful and large nation of Navajo Indians, a contingency probably remote, but always possible.

That the disadvantages it has possessed as a military depot, in being distant from scenes of trouble in the southern portions of the territory is about to be removed by railroad construction, work upon which is now under way. And that, with its connection with other common carriers, Rowe moved to strike out the section, as the board had worked badly heretofore. Herring said it was better than separate county assessments, which differed in each county, creating great confusion and unjust discrimination.

Rowe replied that all property should be assessed alike. A board of state secretary, auditor and treasurer would allow railroads to concentrate on their election and so control the assessment of railroad property.

A New York policeman says: "The best protection a young woman can have in this city is one of those little silver crosses that the King's Daughters wear. I've noticed nowadays that the professional man who looks first at the bosom of a woman's dress, and if that little silver cross is dangling from a button hole he passes her by without even a stare. It's the same way on street cars. If a man has been sharp on other certain newspapers and townsmen. But the president of the fair association declares that Colonel Robt. will come just the same, and talk too.
